New Ways of Working...

The decant of the Town Hall Extension in 2010/2011 provided the opportunity to develop new ways of working which included:

- 8:10 desk ratios implemented with agile working and a clear desk policy.
- Office protocols established following staff engagement
- Flexible working toolkit developed including piloting different flexi-time arrangements
- Document retention and disposal guidance produced
- Model office and new ways of working principles developed for wider use across the organisation.

So, what could have gone better?

- The new ways of working was not fully implemented at First Street.
- The return to the refurbished Town Hall Extension coincided with significant budget reductions and a large decrease in staff numbers.
- Reverted back to fixed desks.
- There was a failure to manage this allied to a lack of ownership and leadership at a senior level

In 2017, the decant of the Town Hall and other estates transformation activity provided the opportunity to revisit and relaunch under ‘Our Ways of Working’.

- Working closely together with IT and Estates works extremely well.
- One size doesn't fit all.
- There is a huge appetite for change from staff.
- Need to balance the positives with the difficult changes.
- It works best when it is co-designed with staff.
- GDPR now in effect...
- Desk ratio is key to making clear desk policy stick.
- Services with both leadership buy in and a motivated staff working group were the most successful.
